“Theatre is such a temporary art, and learning that at such a real level by striking the set as soon as the show is over is just something that I love.”

- Hannah Mans, Theatre Major

A robust and comprehensive program....

The Department of Theatre annually produces four main-stage productions in the well-equipped Vivian Locke Theatre and two to four studio productions in the Jerry L. Davis Studio Theatre. Acting, as well as design and technology opportunities, are available to all students starting with their freshman year. The Theatre faculty are working professionals, devoted to mentoring and educating their students, as well as maintaining their scholarly and/or creative work off campus. Under the direction of the professional faculty, students are encouraged to participate in professional internships and conferences, and to pursue summer employment opportunities in theatre as soon as possible.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

- Theatre - teaches you all aspects of contemporary theatre production and staged entertainments, ranging from musicals and live shows to television, film, and motion capture.
- Arts Administration - provides you with instruction in those subjects needed to successfully run a robust arts producing organization.
